

RIVERBOATIN' INFORMATION

The "La Crosse Queen" is a modern day replica of the grand riverboats which used to ply the Mississippi in the early 1900's. She is one of the few "true" paddlewheelers still in operation in the country today. In keeping with early traditions she was built with sternwheels, which are her only means of propulsion. The Queen has a split sternwheel and each is run by a twin diesel engine; these power hydraulic motors which turn the paddles. The split wheel gives her greater maneuverability and dependability. This is in contrast to most "paddlewheelers" in operation today that have a "free wheeling" paddlewheel at the stern of the boat for visual effect, but have the traditional screw-type engines hidden for their real means of propulsion. The La Crosse Queen is U.S. Coast Guard inspected for safety and is licensed to carry up to 149 passengers.
